Evening Bulletin 75c. Per Month

Aloha, Seattle

The Seattle Post-Intelligencer of December 2 publishes three columns of photographs of the Bulletin party and gives the following account of their departure from Seattle:

"ALOHA OE" FOR HAWAIIAN GIRLS

ISLAND FAREWELL SONG

Visitors From Far Pacific Land Hear Their Native Music as Steamship Governor Takes Them on Their Homeward Way—All Like Seattle

The Hawaiian girls sailed away from Seattle yesterday and their departure was as picturesque as the girls themselves. It was a fitting climax to the weeks of entertainment they have had in Seattle.

The steamship Governor sailed at 10 o'clock yesterday morning, and in spite of an unseasonable hour for late Sunday sleepers there was a very large crowd on the wharf, most of whom went to say farewell to the island visitors. The girls gathered in a group on deck, and while the vessel was made ready for departure they bade good-bye to more than a hundred Seattle friends, most of whom, if the truth be told, were men.

The lines were cast off, the last whistle of the boat sounded, the last late ones hurried on board and the last belated leave-takers hurried to shore. The gangplank was drawn in, and slowly the big boat backed out of her dock.

Then, just as the vessel moved out, five Hawaiian singers, hidden in the crowd, began the song of farewell that all Hawaiians love more than any other, the song with which friends part in the far Pacific islands.

Maidens Touched By Music

It was "Aloha OE," and a mellow tenor voice sang the verse, the whole five joining in the chorus. Two of the Hawaiian girls, at the sudden sound of the familiar, endearing words, broke down and cried. Miss Daisy Todd, the sweet little maid from Hilo, covered her face with her handkerchief. The others seemed to have hard work to keep from displaying the same amount of emotion. But in a moment they were smiling again, and several joined in the last chorus. They stood on the deck as the vessel backed out into the stream, turned, and headed down Sound, waving to their friends of Seattle as long as the flashing of handkerchiefs could be seen.

It was just such a leave-taking as happens in the islands, when all Honolulu goes down to the Pacific Mail or Oceanic dock to watch the big ocean liners head away for San Francisco or to the Orient. The five Hawaiians who made the farewell so picturesque are singing in a local cafe, under the leadership of David Nape, one of the finest musicians the islands has ever produced and the composer of a large number of their best-known songs.

Treated Best in Seattle

The nine Hawaiian girls and their chaperone, Mrs. Edyth Tozier Weathered, are very much pleased with the reception given them by Seattle. All the girls say that they had a more pleasant time here than at any other city they have visited.

And, in passing, for the benefit of some of the sentimental gentlemen who succumbed to the charms of the dark-eyed island lassies, it may be mentioned that the girls have adapted the well-known song, "Honey Boy," to words of their own. And this is the way they sing it:

"Honey Boy, I hate to be leaving,
Honey Boy, you know my heart is grieving.

As we go sailing, sailing o'er the sea,
Honey Boy, Honey Boy.

And if ever you should take a notion
To come sailing, sailing o'er the ocean,
Honey, dear, never fear—I'll be waiting, waiting—
Waiting for you, Honey Boy."

Cleveland, O., Nov. 24.—With his schedule heaped by forty-eight hours the aged pedestrian, Edward Payson Weston, drew cheers from thousands as he swung into Cleveland at 8:15 a. m. today, having tramped from Painesville, thirty miles, since 12:30 a. m. He left Cleveland at 11:45 a. m. and kept up a pace of better than four miles an hour toward Wakarusa, O.

He talked to a crowd of 10,000 before sleeping an hour and a half in the Hollenden.

"Don't smoke cigarettes; smoke cigars or a pipe, if you must; eat prunes daily; take a cold sponge bath each morning; walk to and from work; don't keep late hours; if you would be old and feel a youth," so told the cheering crowd. He declared himself in fit condition and confident of besting his 40-year-old record.

"I am not conceited," he said. "I know interest is in my walk, not in me. The cheers are for American grit and energy. My age makes them see it. I think my trip will bring a revival of pedestrianism. It's the low exercise. One walking vacation would make well thousands who think themselves ill."

Chicago, Nov. 17.—The science of courtship will be taught in the public schools of Illinois if Francis G. Blair, state superintendent of public instruction, has his way. Superintendent Blair does not insist that a new department of instruction be added. Rather he suggests that the teaching—and practice—be made a part of the instruction in English, certain teacher-pieces of English literature being taken as textbooks. He made his suggestion at a meeting of the Chicago English Club, an organization of teachers in English in the Chicago schools.

"I believe, and believe it thoroughly," he said, "that courtship and marriage should be made subjects of instruction in our Illinois schools, just as much as your spelling and arithmetic. Why do we spend years and millions with our children instructing them in theoretical studies, and turn away entirely from the things that are closest to the life the child will live after school days?"

"I have seen this done in country schools. It can be done, feebly and beautifully. I have seen children taking the parts of Priscilla, Miles Standish and John Alden and going through the courtship without a trace of embarrassment or laughter."
